FORT WORTH, Texas, May 11, 2021 /PRNewswire/ -- Incora announced today at a ribbon-cutting ceremony the opening of its new global headquarters at 2601 Meacham Boulevard in Fort Worth. Fort Worth was previously home to two company offices, which have consolidated into the new, expanded location. Incora's largest warehouse, by volume, is in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, and some of the company's largest customers and suppliers are nearby. In addition to these resources and assets, the central U.S. location makes the city of Fort Worth ideal for the new headquarters, offering more product and service availability to global customers, suppliers, and colleagues.

"Our new headquarters is more than a building; it is the commitment that Incora is making to customers, suppliers, employees and community," said Incora chief executive officer David Coleal. "We are celebrating this important milestone because the new headquarters is a symbol that we are one company and one Incora, bringing together our unique capabilities for our customers and suppliers across the globe."

Mayor Betsy Price attended the headquarters opening celebration and stated, "We're delighted to welcome Incora's expanded presence to Fort Worth and we look forward to the company's community involvement."

Brandom Gengelbach, president and chief executive officer of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce also attended the event. He noted, "Fort Worth is a dynamic city by nature, fueled by a vibrant business community. Incora's expansion is a direct testament to that and positions the company for continued success and future growth here."

Ft. Worth Mayor Betsy Price and Incora CEO David Coleal cut the ribbon for Incora's New Ft. Worth, Texas Global Headquarters.

Consolidating Fort Worth-area offices and assets is part of a global plan to combine two legacy companies, Wesco Aircraft and Pattonair, into one Incora. The integration creates efficiencies, encourages collaboration, and leverages growth in all regions. Incora's executive leadership team will be centered in Fort Worth, bringing them together and reinforcing Incora's collaborative approach.
